Alex,

As we discussed, since our products will not be on open India market, we will declare “made to order” and should not be subject to sample testing. The other clients you handle with similar products are managing in same way.

We will ask factory to send declaration letter to India STPI office when they have returned from China holidays.

The deposit fee to STPI should not be required at this time

best regards,

Greg Buffet

Alex,

Please clarify situation.

As we are declaring “made to order product”, are you indicating there is still sample testing requirement? IS the $2600 deposit fee due regardless of our declaration?

best regards,

Greg Buffet

Hi All,

We need to make a quick decision today as STPI asks for sample testing during this market surveillance. The cost is around $2600 USD, including sample testing, delivery, tax and CSA consulting fees. The payment needs to be made in Indian rupees to its designated bank account, which we will take care of.

As Murata products are C/ NOT available in the market, STPI should waive the testing fees as per attached STPI guideline based on my understanding.

3. The manufacturer has to provide a declaration about the models which are not sold in market and if they are found in the market, the cases would be processed for cancellation of registration. Further, if all the models in a registration number are custom-built then he shall provide a declaration in this regard and deposit surveillance charges as per the provisions of the Cl. No.3.3 excluding cost of the samples to STPI for executing surveillance.

Please review if you agree to request Kevin to sign the attached.

There is penalty if Murata products are found in the market.
The whole registration will be cancelled.

Please consider the risks and advise on how to proceed.

Best regards,
Alex

Hi All,

Just a quick note to you that the deposit amount for Murata Shenzhen Watt is not available yet. But I have received the amount for other BIS clients. STPI is busy working on this.

I will complete the process and keep you informed.

Best regards,
Alex
